The TREMOLO Project (www.tremoloproject.eu) has entered the TREMOLO_FORTE phase of its crescendo, and is excited to announce a new open-call for emerging musicians and bands who will be involved in a Cultural Cooperation project, with the aim of promoting the trans-national mobility of music, musicians and music professionals across Europe.

The artistic management of the 5 project partners will select talented and emerging artists, (preferably smaller formations up to 5 band members) who will be guided through a talent development trajectory that includes:

- mentorship by experienced musicians with solid experience in international touring
- workshops/conferences to develop their artistic profile and advertisement strategies with an international perspective,
- creative residencies together with peer musicians from the project partner countries to co-create and co-produce new songs, joint performances and music videos

- additional touring opportunities with Associate Partners

We are looking for young artists and bands:

- Who are based in any European Country, with special attention to peripheral regions or border areas.
- Who either (1) demonstrate a good knowledge of the music traditions of their own region, enjoy practising their local traditional music and instruments with a creative, contemporary approach and/or (2) create music inspired by tradition and roots but in open dialogue with global culture and new sounds, reaching for new levels within the so called "world music" sphere.
- Who have started a music project with a clear identity and image, with at least 1 year of experience and a growing fan-base in their local environment, and demonstrate a good potential for increasing their public through international touring.
- Who are excited to share their music with like-minded musicians from different countries, and be involved in the co-creation of new songs, joint performances and videos to promote the TREMOLO_FORTE Project objectives in a European context.
- Who, through their artistic work, address relevant cross-cutting issues such as gender equality, social inclusion, environmental sustainability.
- Who are willing to commit themselves to fulfil all the planned activities of the Project

We will offer to the selected artists and bands:
